Excerpt from Iintagel and Other Verses To R.B.O. There s one fellow that I wot of, Who in full career of life Still can dream of daring princes, Still can bare his hunting-knife When amid the purple forests He beholds the lion ramp, Or above the after-hatches Hears the pirate-chieftain tramp. He has won the golden apples, He has climbed the outer cliff, And beheld the Indian stalking The ferocious hippogriff. O my brothers, if you only Were with faith of children blest, You would know the sun arisen Is still rising farther west; And between the morn and evening, In the grayness of the day, You would see the splendid colours And the magic of your way! About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
